Read to Learn
Third grade students participated in a “walk-about” related to text features. At each question, students discussed nonfiction text features with a partner.
Third grade students are learning to identify and use nonfiction text features to help them learn about different topics.